
Writers in this Issue

Michael Bos is ordained in the Reformed Church in America (RCA) and currently serves as Director of Al Amana Centre, an ecumenical study for Christian-Muslim relations in the Sultanate of Oman.

F. Peter Ford, Jr. has been an RCA missionary for the past 26 years, having served in Oman, Sudan, and Ethiopia. Currently he teaches at Mekane Yesus Seminary in Addis Ababa, where he directs the Program in Christian-Muslim Relations. He holds the MDiv from Western Theological Seminary and the PhD (Islamic Studies) from Temple University, Philadelphia.

John Hubers is currently a PhD candidate at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago in the area of Christian-Muslim relations. Previous to this he served as supervisor of RCA Mission Programs in the Middle East and South Asia as well as pastor of international congregations in the Persian Gulf through the RCA mission program. He is a graduate of New Brunswick Theological Seminary.

Lewis R. Scudder, Jr. is ordained in the RCA and served as a missionary in the Middle East. He has lectured in Muslim-Christian relations and written various articles on the subject. Currently he is consultant to the division of Global Mission of the RCA on its relations in the Middle East with the Muslim and Christian communities there.