
Writers in this Issue

Michael D. Langford is professor of theology at Seattle Pacific University and an ordained pastor in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). He has done extensive research in the areas of systematic theology, educational ministry and adolescent culture.

Duane Smith is youth ministry leadership development consultant for the RCA, Synod of the Great Lakes. Since 1983, he has served over 80 Reformed churches, assisting them with building strong and sustainable youth ministries.